Mr. T. H Lane, inspector of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, was arrested Thuredsy night on a warrant sworn out before Justice Coleman, charging him with committing the offense he has been engaged in suppressing. The warrant is fathered by Jerry Rossell, who drives for William Donnelly, secretary of the Dray-mea's Protective Union, which was organ-ized to fight the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. Rossell swears that on the 3d instant Mr. Lane arrested him on the 3d instant Mr. Lane arrested him near Market Square for driving a soreback mule that was pulling a beavy load; that instead of having the mule taken out or pull the load to -its destination, a short distance further on, Mr. Lane had him pull it all the way down to Esquire Coleman's office, thus prolonging his torture. Mr. Lane was released on his own recognizance, to ap-pear at 9 o'clock this morning. His arrest is the first gos from the draymen's lines.

Henry Manderer, a German neddler, came o Justice Quigley yesterday and told a story of swindling that is worth recording. He of swindling that is worth recording. He arrived from Vicksburg Thursday night and took lodgings at Jake Storz's "free-and casy," on Main street. Yesterday morning he announced an intention of going to the mayor and getting out a license to peddle his stock, which consisted of jewelry, part of it genuine gold, the rest pinchbeck. A big fellow named Louis W. Steinhouser, who was standing by, insisted on taking a look at the contents of the small but precious pack, promising to take Mauderer up to the mayor and use his influence to get the license. The jewelry was fluence to get the license. The jewelry was displayed, and he went on to say that it would not do to let the mayor know about the pinchback stuff, as it was against the isw to sell it, and proposed that the gen-uine articles only should be shown him. Manderer was finally persuaded to put these into an envelope and turn them over to his new-found best factor. "Better give me a pair of them brass ear-rings, too, for luck," said that party, at the close of the transaction. This was done. The two theu walked out to the bar, and Steinhouser. throwing a quarter on the counter, treated Mauderer to a glass of beer, and made him take the twenty cents change, at the same time talking londly about the pair of ear-rings he had bought. He next took Manderer up so the courtbours, knowing that President Hadden was then engaged at the Police Court. The official sanctum wes, of course, untenanted, and the two de-scended to the street and walked up about a modute a number of horses that had not block. A well-known citizen of Braden Station. hirty-three miles northeast of Memphis, on the Louisville railway, was in the city yesterday, and in the course of general conver sation related to a representative of the APPEAL a shocking incident which trans-pired in that neighborhood some ten or twelve days ago. About three or four weeks ago a thinly clad and apparently desforgotten, until about ten days ago, when she was discovered in a descried farmhouse, a mile away from any babitation, where she had several days before given birth to a hearty-looking boy baby, without attendance by any human being. Strange to say, the mother and child were both doing well, notwith-standing that the mother's bed was the bare floor, without covering, except the few articles of personal apparel, the only wrap—s threadbare shawl of small dimensions—being devoted to the use of the infant, and which was its only clothing. It is hardly necessary to say that as soon as the poor woman's sad condition was made knows ample provision, was made for the comfort of herself and bate by the kind-hearted people of that vicinity. The unfortunate woman's story was a short but sad history. She said her husband had died about six months ago in de
